COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

MONDAY EVENING, SEPT. 18.

A CONJUNCTION of Hindu and Parsi holidays has closed business from Friday until Wednesday, and we have therefore to report on but three days' business. In that interval actual transactions have been most limited extent, in fact, but for the sake of regularity in maintaining a weekly report, would be scarcely worthy of notice. In Exports there has been just a trifle more doing owing the decline which has taken place in homeward freights. Stocks of produce, however, are so limited owing to the break down which has taken place on both the B. B. and C. I. and the G. I. P. Railways by floods, that there is very little on the spot to operate with. Meanwhile the home markets continue remarkably dull, and we see little hope of much activity until the end of October. The import markets have also been affected by the break in railway communication, and next to nothing has been done since the departure of last mail.

MONEY is easy, and seems likely to continue so for another couple of months at least. The new loan for ½ crores of rupees may lend a little firmness to the market, but otherwise trade requirements will be limited until towards the end of the year when our Cotton Crop will begin to call for finan, cial facilities.

EXCHANGE.—There has been very little done in Sterling since the departure of last mail. Silver in London having receded to 51¼d. per oz. and the demand for remittance to this side as indicated by the limited demand for Council drafts, being also on the decline, we had a distinctly weaker feeling during the three days on which the Banks were open, and for bank bills a decline of 1-32d. per rupee was established. Private paper, however, remains unaltered, and the following are quotations for ready bills, delivery after the end of October being 1-32d. higher :—

Bank Bills on demand	..Is. 7 31-32d.	per Rupee.
Do. Telegraphic	..Is. 7 15-16d.	,,
Do. 3 months' sight	Is. 8 5-32d.	,,
Credits, 3 ,,	,, ..Is. 8 9-32d.	,,
Francs, 3 ,,	,, ..2 7 14	,,

On Calcutta the rate for demand drafts has been 3-32 to ¼ per cent. premium, 60 days' sight 7-16 per cent. discount.

GOVERNMENT PAPER was firm up to the close of business owing to the favourable advices from Egypt, and quotations were advanced to Rs. 100¾ for Fours and Rs. 107½ to ¼ for Fours-and-a-half, but the announcement of the new loan will probably exercise a depressing effect on the re-opening of business on Wednesday, and we may look for Fours receding to par.

SHARES moved but slightly in the three days following the departure of last mail. Banks were unchanged throughout. Press Companies were firm, at a general improvement of Rs. 2½ to Rs. 5 per share owing to the favourable advices regarding next year's Cotton Crop. Spinning and Weaving Companies were steadier within most instances a recovery of Rs. 5 per share, the idea being that a better demand for Goods and Yarns must develope at no distant date.

PIECE-GOODS have been extremely quiet, up country buyers being practically out of the market owing to the interruption in railway communication. Prices, however, are nominally unchanged, and a more hopeful feeling is entertained regarding the future owing to the favourable crop accounts from all parts of the country.

METALS are quiet all round, the only change in prices being in Copper, which is As. 12 per cwt. lower.

COALS are quiet but steady. Some ready Cardiff has been pressed on the market for resale at very low rates, but first importers are not offering owing to the difficulty in finding outward tonnage in the face of the poor freights homeward.

COTTON has been very dull for ready export butiness, the Liverpool advices having been dull throughout. Only some 1,000 bales are reported to have changed hands altogether, and prices may be called Rs. 2 to Rs. 3 per candy lower on the week.

The Bombay Gazette

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1882.

Now that the military difficulty has been swept aside in Egypt, the political difficulty has to be faced, and there is some danger that it may prove less amenable to heroic treatment than Arabi and his army. The problem which we have to solve has a two-fold character. We have to deal with the complications arising from the hitherto subsisting rights of the Sultan as Suzerain of Egypt, and the claims of the European concert to a voice in whatever arrangements may be found necessary for the regulation of Egyptian affairs in the future. Those complications are in themselves likely to find abundant occupation for statesmen and diplomatists for some time to come. To name the Great Powers is to enumerate the various classes of vexations which are certain to start up now that the hour has come when the fruits of our success are to be contested and the results we have acquired are to be minimised. It is for this hour that France has been unostentatiously, but very assiduously, strengthening her Mediterranean fleet. Not that she has the slightest intention of trying conclusions with Admiral Seymour's ironclads; but she wishes to be able to speak at the Conference without being as ridiculous as Sir Robert Walpole would have felt himself to be if he spoke to a member of Parliament without having five hundred pounds in his pocket. Italy is sure to revive in some objectionable form her cantankerous proposal for a European police to look after everybody's interests in Egyptian waters. Russia has the same idea in her head; if she consent to lay it aside it will be because she may feel herself called to establish order in Armenia as we have done in Egypt. What Germany and Austria may say or do only one man in Europe accurately knows, and his health is just now very precarious—a bad sign, as the world has learned from experience. The Porte indeed must be at its wit's end. The knowledge that Russia is longing to utilise in Asia the precedent set by England in Africa, and the certainty that if she does there will be no question of her withdrawing from Erzeroum, whatever there may be of our withdrawing sooner or later from Cairo and Alexandria, obliges the Sublime Government to keep on some kind of terms with that of Her Britannic Majesty. But it will not be wholly able to forego, on that account, the practice of those arts of intrigue in which it is a passed master. It will raise up obstacles and accumulate petty difficulties in the path along which we have hitherto pursued the even tenour of our way, without deigning to bestow a second thought on the Sultan's wishes or feelings Human nature is human nature, and the Grand Turk is a Turk notwithstanding his grandeur. He will search about for the means of revenging himself for the humiliations which Lord Dufferin has heaped upon him with such admirable courtesy, and such entire presence of mind, during the last two or three months. If Abdul Hamid were not in almost bodily fear of Russia he would, in his present frame of mind, be capable of making known to our Ambassador his opinion of the way in which he has been served, but as it is he will resort to every reasonable means of securing the smallest revenge compatible with safety.

But all these elements of annoyance and difficulty, formidable as the scarcely conceal

THE OUT-COMING MAIL.

THE s. s. Malwa, with the outward English Mails, left Suez for Bombay at 1 a.m. on Sunday.

UNDER instructions from Army Head-Quarters, a salute of 31 guns was fired from the Saluting Battery at 8 a. m. yesterday in commemoration of victory in Egypt.

THE Hon'ble Justice Tottenham left Calcutta for England on the 16th inst., and will be absent till the end of December.

THE cash balances in the Hyderabad Administration treasuries on the 31st July were as follows :—In 1880, Rs. 52,26,120 ; in 1881, Rs. 49,64,219 ; and 1882, Rs. 51,57,225. The value of gold coins in all the treasuries amounted to only Rs. 225.

A FEW sporting spirits from Secunderabad paid a visit to Poona last week and engaged the local champions at various games. The results were :—Poona beat Secunderabad at cricket by 130 runs. Secunderabad (Orr) beat Poona (Hobday) at billiards. Poona (Beaver and Raikes) beat Secunderabad (Yates and Orr) at racquets, three games to one. Secunderabad won the polo match, by three goals to two. The Secunderabad cricketers wished to have a match with the Bombay Gymkhana on Saturday and yesterday, but owing to so many men having gone out of town for the holidays, Bombay could not raise a team, and the proposed game had to be abandoned.

IN anticipation of the Salvation Army's campaign in India, a local native paper, the Subodha Patrika, says :—"There will no doubt be a great stir in Bombay for some time, and thousands of people will be crowding in the streets to see the tamasha. The curious dresses of the male and female lecturers, and the songs and speeches of the foreigners in the vernacular languages, cannot fail to be attractive, and even amusing. But how far the Army will succeed in their object, to conquer and christianise the hearts of the masses of this country, remains to be seen One thing must be remembered, that here they will have to deal with people who have not abandoned their religion and taken to dissolute habits, but who have a deeply rooted religious belief which it will be very difficult to shake by mere marches, dances, music, and other similar exhibitions. But certainly no great political revolutions or troubles need be apprehended. It is vain to picture any evils from the advent of the Salvation Army."

Now that the monsoon is practically over, the Volunteer drill season will shortly commence. The Calcutta corps has already begun operations, and begun well. The Indian Daily News says the season opened on the 15th instant, and adds :—"We are glad to know that the strength on the rolls has run up to 800 men, and that more are coming in ; but we hope to hear that in another week Major Hutchinson will have yet a full complement of recruits, and that he will be able to boast of a battalion at least 1,000 strong." We believe there have been considerable additions made to the Bombay corps during the off-season, D and E Companies especially having enrolled numerous recruits. A further useful and substantial addition might, we think, be made in the shape of a Cadet Company or two. Another direction in which the Corps requires strengthening, is in the number of officers. At present D is the only one of the six local Companies with the full complement of three officers. A Company wants one officer ; B Company one ; C Company one ; E Company one ; and F Company two. We trust General Hewett and Captain Proudfoot will be able to fill these vacant commissions before the active operations of the season commence. All Volunteers, and everyone who takes an interest in the Corps, will be glad to hear that Captain Proudfoot has some hopes of obtaining another range in place of that at Coorla, which is in many respects unsuitable. The proposed range is situated on the B. B. and C. I. Railway, somewhere in the neighbourhood of Bandora, we understand. This would be very much better than Coorla.

THE Calcutta mounted Infantry Volunteers are being well trained. A local paper states that divided into groups of eight men each, they are used as scouts in a way which must make them feel that they are certainly not spending their time in show and play. Major Hutchinson has had prepared a series of skeleton maps of the roads between the Maidan and Ballygunge, and one such map is given to each group. They are then started off, each man with ten rounds of ammunition, and have to find their way by the route indicated to the range at Ballygunge. Here they find a dummy enemy in position, and have to reconnoitre that position, ascertain its strength, and how it is held, and then hurry back to head-quarters, and make a report.

AN attempt was made, early on Wednesday morning last, to break into the Government Toshakhana at Lahore. A gang of at least six men were engaged in the affair ; and almost succeeded in making a hole through the wall. This is the second attempt of the kind that has been made of late ; and the local paper suggests that "the authorities will probably consider it necessary, now, to place more than one police sentry over a valuable collection of Government property." Some captures have already been made ; and the police hope to get hold of the whole gang.

WE regret to hear of the death, on the 5th instant, in Kashmere, of Major Andrew Scott, V. C., Wing Commander of the 4th Sikh Infantry. Though as having earned his V. C. Major Scott must have seen service in the field, the Englishman points out, no record of his war services is given in the Bengal Army List. He obtained his Victoria Cross for his gallant conduct at Quetta, on the 26th July, 1877, whilst serving in the 4th Sikh Infantry, on the occasion of an attack by some Pathan coolies on Lieutenants Hewson and Kunhardt, of the Royal Engineers. On the evening of that day Captain Scott, whilst on duty at the regimental parade ground of the 4th Sikh Infantry, at Quetta, hearing an alarm that British officers were being killed, spontaneously rushed to the rescue, and finding Lieutenant Hewson cut down, and Lieutenant Kunhardt wounding, hard pressed and wounded, and only protected by Sepoy Ruchpal Singh, of the above-mentioned regiment, fell on the assailants, and with his own hand bayonetted two men and closed with a third, who fell with him to the ground and was killed by sepoys of the regiment. This act of courage and devotion saved the life of Lieutenant Kunhardt.

THE Senate of the Madras University have lately had under discussion an important question, whether a degree of Bachelor of Science should be instituted. On the 15th inst. there was a long debate on the subject, which is reported at length in the local Mail. This, by the way, was the first meeting of the Senate to which representatives of the Press have been admitted. Dr. Wilson, at a previous meeting, had proposed the institution of a Science degree. Dr. Bradshaw proposed that the discussion should be adjourned, as the time for instituting such a degree had not yet arrived, a view which was supported by several other members, the feeling being, apparently, that they required first to have experience of certain changes recently introduced in the M. A. and B. A. degrees before resolving to institute a Science degree. Sir Charles Turner, the Vice-Chancellor, remarked that so little advantage had been taken of the means of special scientific instruction already provided, that although the University had established a College for Civil Engineering, there were scarcely three candidates for the B. C. E. He was not therefore so sanguine that the result of the establishment of the Science degree would be to largely encourage the study of Physical Science. At the same time, it must be remembered that this country had distinguished itself in scientific pursuits for ages before the West entered on them. There was, he believed, a latent desire for scientific knowledge, and the hesitation he had felt as to the ripeness of the time for the step proposed yielded to the larger hope that by the institution of a degree, the University would foster science and induce further study of its several branches. After considerable discussion, it was resolved by 24 votes to 6 "that the degree of Bachelor of Science be instituted."

A CORRESPONDENT writes to a Madras paper attributing the Salem riots to the neglect of Government officers to learn Hindustani, "the language of the Mahomedans." The correspondent argues that if the Collector of Salem could have spoken to the Mahomedans in their own language, instead of through a native interpreter, when they decided so unwisely to build their mosque in the midst of a very crowded Hindu locality, he would doubtless have prevailed upon them to select a more suitable site, and thus have prevented the provocation which led to the recent disastrous religious riots. The Mahomedans were very much to blame for insisting upon building their mosque in so very unsuitable a spot, and the Collector was much more in fault for consenting to so dangerous a step." If the correspondent's figures are correct, it is certainly, as he says, "worthy of remark" that out of 166 Madras Covenanted Civil Servants "only one name appears in the Army List of 31st March last as having passed in Hindustani ; seven more have received the minor reward ; and two others have passed the second standard—total 10." From this the correspondent argues that though British India is said to have forty millions of Mahomedan inhabitants, and Madras has no doubt its fair share of these millions, "yet out of the 166 actual rulers of that Presidency only ten are supposed capable of conversing with Mahomedans in their mother tongue."

WRITING on the subject of the Local Self-government policy, the Amrita Bazar Patrika says that the Bombay Gazette is, "perhaps, the only English paper in India which has been generous enough to give a warm support to the measure It has done at least much more than the Calcutta papers have done. The Statesman is a very liberal paper, but somehow or other our contemporary has been induced to assume an attitude of benevolent indifference to the measure. The Indian Daily News is also a liberal paper, but its attitude towards the measure is somewhat hostile. The Englishman is a conservative paper, and the policy that our aristocratic contemporary has adopted is to smother the liberal measure of Government by a withering and contemptuous indifference, forgetting that the measure is one which has been introduced by the Supreme Government, and taken in hand warmly by the local Government and received with joy by about 5 or 6 millions of intelligent and educated men. In Bengal the Government wanted to know the opinions of the public on the measure, and the opinion has been given in an unmistakeable manner. At Berhampore there was a gathering of about 30,000 people, perhaps more."

THE Times' Philadelphia correspondent says :—A telegram received there from Vancouver Island reports constant conflicts between the Chinese railway labourers and the farmers. As the Chinese out-number the whites, the relations between the races are becoming strained.

A BODY of capitalists is, the New York correspondent of the Standard says, promoting a scheme for establishing a shorter route to Europe by way of Newfoundland and Galway, Ireland. The charters have been obtained for the necessary railroads, seventy miles in length in Nova Scotia and 320 miles long across Newfoundland. The work has already begun in Nova Scotia. Steamboats will cross the narrows with the railway carriages, and the remaining distance is covered by the existing lines. They expect to convey passengers without change of carriages to the point of departure for the ocean journey, and to save from two to four days in the journey between New York and London. A daily service is talked of. The promoters hope to get the carrying of the mails. From Chicago this route is almost a straight line. The completion of the entire work is expected to occupy five years.

ACCOUNTS are published in the Spanish newspapers of an atrocious act of brigandage, committed recently at Fuensanta, a watering place frequented by the elite of Peninsular society. It appears that one evening a large party of fashionable holiday-makers had assembled in the grounds attached to the principal hotel, when suddenly a number of men, armed to the teeth, presented themselves at the main entrance to the garden and levelled their muskets at its occupants, exclaiming, "Todo el mundo boca abajo !" (Lie down, all of you, with your faces to the ground.) Instead of obeying this injunction, the guests rushed into the hotel and barricaded themselves in their rooms. The ladies' screams attracted the attention of two Guardias Civiles, or gendarmes, who happened to be near the hotel at the time, and these brave fellows charged the brigands, but were received with a volley which stretched them dead upon the ground, as well as the landlord of the hotel, who had armed himself with a revolver and volunteered to share their courageous enterprise. The bandits then endeavoured to carry the hotel by storm, but were unable to break in the doors, and after several ineffectual attempts to effect an entrance withdrew, carrying with them, however, the murdered landlord's two young daughters, since ransomed by their relatives. Next day, as may well be imagined, Fuensanta was evacuated by its summer visitors, and left for the remainder of the season to its native inhabitants, whose prospects of legitimate spoil have thus been shattered by their professional rivals in the predatory art.

THE CORPORATION MEETING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—In this morning's report in your paper of the proceedings of the Municipal Corporation's meeting on Friday last, you do not fully give the explanation of the Municipal Commissioner, whereupon I withdrew the motion regarding the construction of the dwarf wall on Khote footpath. The Municipal Commissioner stated that it was not advisable to have a dwarf wall, but he was going to have stone benches placed there at a short distance from each other. It was upon this explanation that I withdrew the motion.—Yours truly,

MURDER OF A CHILD FOR HIS ORNAMENTS.

ON Friday last a Hindoo woman named Cheoo, living at Matoonga, Bhoywada, reported to the police that her son, aged ten years, named Shiva Bablee, was missing, and that he had on his person, when last seen, a gold earring set with false pearls, valued at Rs. 3, and a silver waist-chain, valued at Rs. 15. Upon inquiries instituted by Inspector Chisleti, three men, named Kondo Kesti, Andia and Dhurma Bharrick, were arrested on suspicion, and certain information elicited from them led to the discovery on Sunday evening of the boy's body in a well situated in the compound of one Mahim, in Worlee Flats. Both hands of the corpse were found bound behind the back with a red cotton cord, and the feet were also secured at the ankles. The silver waist-chain had been removed, together with some portions of the clothing, but the latter was subsequently found in the field, a short distance from the well. Two of the men arrested alleged that the chain had been disposed of to a Marwarree, whom they identified ; but his man denies all knowledge of the transaction. The statements made by the two prisoners are to the effect that on Friday morning the three men, Luxia, Gunnoo Rowjee, and Dhurma Bharrick, enticed the decea-ed away to the Worlee Flats intending, on that day, to murder him for the sake of the ornaments he was wearing. Luxia, it is said, had in his hand a well which contained a large quantity of gold, and if certain ceremonies were performed, in which the lad should take the principal part, the well would suddenly throw up to the surface all the treasure it contained. On the boy being promised a share in the treasure-trove, he consented to be one of the party, and went to the well in company with the three men. When they reached the well, he was asked to remove his cap and part of his clothing, and also his waist-chain. The man Luxia then took a cord which he had around his own waist, cut it in two, and bound the boy's hands to his back, and his feet at the ankles. The boy was made to sit on the parapet wall of the well, with his mouth full of pebbles and a leaf of the pepul-tree, and he was told that at the conclusion of each prayer that they were about to offer up, he should spit out a pebble and some water in the well, and that immediately the last pebble was spat out, the gold would appear. While thus conversing with the lad, one of the party pushed him into the well, and after throwing his clothes away in the field, left the place.

By order of the Coroner, Dr. Blaney, the body of the deceased, Shiva Bablee, was removed to the Morgue at Cammateepoora yesterday morning, and at an inquest subsequently held the following evidence was given. Cheoo, woman, deposed.—I am the widow of one Bablee, a market-gardener, and live at Matoonga Bhoywada. Deceased was my son. His age was ten years. He lived with me. On the 15th instant, at 6 a.m., I left home and went to a cotton-mill on DeLisle-road. Deceased was then in the house. I left the mill at 11 a.m., as the work was stopped, and went home. When I reached home the deceased was not in the house. I inquired of my neighbours where the boy was, and a woman, named Nukooosee Hoolee, that she saw him playing in front of the house at 7 a.m. I went out in search of him in the village, but failed to find him. I and Luximon Dakoo then went to Lall Bauch, to the house of a man named Luximon, to inquire if he knew where the deceased was, as deceased was in the habit of going fishing with him. Luximon said he had not seen the deceased that day. I then brought Luximon to my house, in company with Luximon Dakoo. When I reached Bhoywada in Naigaum, I reported to a policeman whom I saw there that my son was missing, and that Luximon had taken him away to fish, and I did not know what he had done with him. The police then took all of us into the village, and there I showed him two boys who were playmates of the deceased. One of the boys told the policeman that he had seen Luximon and Andia speaking to the deceased about 7 a.m. in the street near a liquor-shop. The policeman and I went to Andia's house, but Andia was not at home. It was then about 9 p.m. The policeman took us to the police jemadar at Matoonga, who took us to Superintendent Chislett at Mahim. Luximon told Mr. Chislett that he had seen the deceased in Bhoywada early in the morning, that the deceased had given him fire to light his biddee, and that he left him there and went to his own house. The police detained Luximon in custody, and allowed me, Luximon Dakoo, and the two boys to go away. The day before yesterday, about 6 a.m., I saw Andia near his house, and asked him what he had done with the deceased, as the deceased was in the habit of going out with him. Andia denied that the deceased had gone out with him. I then went to the policeman with whom I had gone to Mahim on the previous day, and whom I then at his post at Bhoywada, and brought him to Andia's house. I showed him Andia, and the policeman arrested him. The policeman took me and Andia to Mr. Chislett at Mahim. Mr. Chislett inquired of Andia in my presence where the deceased was, but he denied all knowledge of my son. Mr. Chislett detained Andia in custody, and told me to go home, promising that he would make further inquiry about the deceased. I told Mr. Chislett that Andia usually wore a waist-chain, valued at Rs. 12, and that he had a gold earring with false pearls in his right ear, and that its value was Rs. 3-4. I searched for the deceased all day yesterday in company with a policeman. About 8-30 or 9 p.m. yesterday I was laid up with fever, when a policeman and Luximon Dakoo came to my house and asked me to come out. I said I was too ill to do so. They then went away. At 2 o'clock this morning they again came to my house and took me in a buggy to DeLisle-road opposite the B. B. and C. I. Railway work-shops. I was detained on the public road, and the police went into a rice-field, whence they brought a dead body in a blanket. They showed me the body, and I recognized it as that of the deceased. The ankles were bound together with a cord, and the hands were tied behind the back. The body was dressed only in a dhotur. The silver waist-chain was missing. The gold ear-ring was then in his right ear. The body was much decomposed. When I last saw the deceased alive in my house on the morning of the 15th instant, he was dressed in a bundee, a skull-cap, and a dhotur. The latter is now on the body. He then had the silver chain round his waist.

At this stage the inquest was adjourned for further inquiry to Saturday, the 30th instant.

HIGH COURT.—SEPTEMBER 18.

(Before the Hon'ble Mr. Justice BAYLEY.)

THE LATE MR. A. H. WADIA'S WILL.

In this matter a caveat has been filed by the son-in-law of the deceased, Mr. H. A. Wadia, against probate being granted of the will of the late Mr. Ardasir Hormarjee Wadia to the applicants for the probate, Mr. H. A. Hormarjee and Mr. N. Spencer. A rule nisi calling upon the applicants to show cause why an administrator pendente lite should not be appointed to the estate of the deceased was to-day called on for further hearing, when the Hon'ble Mr. Lang, Mr. Farran, and Mr. Pherozshaw, instructed by Messrs. Chalk and Walker, appeared for the applicants ; Mr. Inverarity, instructed by Messrs. Cleveland, Little, and Nicholson, appeared for the caveator ; and Messrs. Kirkpatrick and Telang for Meherbai, the widow, and the infant children.

Mr. Frank Chalk was further examined by Mr. Lang. He said.—The commission of the firm of B. and A. Hormarjee as agents to the Coorla Mills amounts to Rs. 30,000 or Rs. 40,000 a year. I advised Mr. Ardasir that the firm should hold at least one-fourth the number of shares, to prevent an adverse special resolution being passed. He himself told me that he owned many more shares than one-fourth the total number. There are 1,300 shares at present. The testator was always very jealous of the credit and reputation of his firm. He was very sensitive on the subject. It was a feeling very plainly indicated in my last conversation with him. Without complaining, he expressed a gentle murmur of regret at the length of his wills, and he was afraid of litigation after his death, which he was most anxious to avoid. On the question of litigation, he was chiefly afraid of Nusserwanjee, and, as far as I could judge, he had confidence in his son Hormarjee, and also in Hormusjee Master. The applicant Hormarjee frequently brought me instructions about the testator's wills, but except in the most trivial alterations, he insisted upon consulting his father as to any alterations or amendments in the writings. I had very many opportunities of judging of the testator's capacities. My opinion of him was that he was a very shrewd, painstaking man of business, and decidedly cautious. He was not a man who would sign a document before he fully knew and understood the contents.

Cross-examined by Mr. Inverarity.—I knew nothing about the will in this case. In July, 1881, the testator, refer ditions, his doggedness to hold his own against hostile intrigues, his calm manliness, his almost unparalleled equanimity, his cool, steady rancour against those who have done him, despite his unfaltering fidelity in friendships. Wolseley is a man who would have risen, no matter what avocation he had chosen to pursue. He perhaps has no special gift for war. He makes war well, simply as he would have made good shrewd ventures if he had been a merchant, or as he would have been chosen for delicate missions had he been a diplomat. If he had been a boot-black he would have launched a "Boot-Polishing Company, Limited," with himself as managing director; if he had gone into patent medicines, he would have out-advertised Professor Holloway, and secured the testimony, not of an Arab sheik, but of an Emperor, in favour of the efficacy of his pills. No adverse conditions could have held Wolseley down; no native obscurity could have kept him "mute inglorious."

He joined the 80th Regiment in '52, when as yet a lad of 19. The old local connexion was manifest in his choice of a regiment, for the 80th is a Staffordshire corps. He did not soldier long with the Staffordshire knot on his coat collar; but his first regiment came under his command when he went to Zululand, were also his last under was sent him the 90th, the regiment in which he had won promotion and glory in the Crimea and in India. When he was gazetted to the 80th it was on service in Burmah, where Sir John Cheape was conducting what is now known as as the "Second Burmese War." Sir John was operating against a certain Burmese chieftain who owned the euphonious name of Myat-loon, and also the reputedly impregnable stronghold of Kyouk-Azeem, situated in the heart of a dense jungle. The outworks of this stronghold had to be taken by storm, and Wolseley only just joined, volunteered to lead the storming detachment. His handful of the 80th was conjoined in the operation with a little band of Madras Infantry under the command of Lieutenant Taylor. Taylor and Wolseley raced for the honour of being first inside the enemy's works. Neither won, owing to circumstances over which neither had any control. Both were simultaneously wounded, and strangely enough exactly in the same place. A gingal ball struck Wolseley on the left thigh, tearing away a mass of muscle and flesh. Taylor suffered similarly, but with the more lethal addition that his femoral artery was severed. He bled to death on the spot. Wolseley slowly recovered, but he will bear to his grave the furrow of the gingal ball. When at home convalescent, he was promoted to a lieutenancy in the 90th, then in the Crimea. After a short spell of trench service with his regiment, Wolseley was selected for duty as acting engineer of our Right Attack, and filled this post through the long cruel winter. He was gazetted as captain in the end of '54, but the promotion was cancelled. And for what reason, do you think? Because of Wolseley's youth! He had not been too young to earn the promotion, but the authorities thought a lad of twenty-one and-a-half too young for a captaincy! Wolseley, justly incensed, threatened to resign if deprived of the promotion he had won, and the authorities cancelled the cancellation. He was thanked in despatches for his services in the capture of the quarries, and took part in the first unsuccessful assault of the Redan.

When engaged in his engineering work in the trenches in August, 1855, Wolseley was all but shattered by a shell that killed the two sappers who were assisting him. The shell burst in a gabion that had been packed with gravel, and the explosion simply "stuck Wolseley full of stones." Jagged bits of pebbles were embedded in him all over from head to foot. There was not a square inch of his face that had not its stone; his left cheek was all but torn away. His eyes were closed (to this day he is blind of one eye), and part of the bone of his left shin was carried away bodily. Fortunately he is able to keep the eye left to him pretty wide open. He was picked up for dead, but astonished the surgeons who were speaking of him as quite gone by cheerily mumbling that he was "worth a dozen dead men yet." This wound or rather this broadcast area of wounds sent him home invalided, and so he missed being present at the capture of the great fortress of the Euxine. He had got mended, however, by '57, and started with his regiment for service in China. The 90th was one of the regiments with this destination which Lord Canning's swift steamers contrived to catch en route and divert to India to aid in the quelling of the great mutiny that had broken out with so fell an unexpectedness. The gallant "Perthshire Greycoats" were included in the column which Sir Colin Campbell led from Cawnpore to the second relief of Lucknow. From the Dilkoosha, Sir Colin had sent the "Black Watch" down the slope on the Martiniere. The Bird and the Sikhs had made a ghastly shambles of the once beautiful Secunderabagh garden. Peel's men, of the Shannon, were slogging with their ship's guns into the massive structure of the Shah Nujuf, preparatory to carrying it by escalade out of the branches of a tree that grew against the walls on the shrine. Wolseley, with his two companies of the 90th, was sent to the left to carry the "Mess House." The way to its compound wall was across the open, Wolseley's flock took with them a couple of light guns. So fierce was the sepoy fire that, to use Wolseley's own quaint colloquialism, "the bullets dropped off the tires of the wheels [illegible] a drum." The Mess House was carried [illegible] Beyond the Mess House lay the [illegible] and Wolseley thought he might as [illegible] He did so, with his own hand, [illegible] of bullets, pulling down [illegible] the staff on its [illegible]; trop de zele [illegible] instructions [illegible]

He was present at the [illegible] of Pekin, and among his souvenirs [illegible] sumed in the destruction by fire of the Lo[illegible] technicon while he was absent in Ashantee. [illegible] some precious mementos of the Summer Palace. At the close of this war he was despatched on his first non-military mission—an expedition to Nankin to gather all available information in regard to the Taepings, and condense it into a report. Soon after his return to England, he was sent out on the staff to Canada, whence he paid a lengthened visit to the Confederate armies during the great American civil war, and where he was serving as Assistant Quartermaster-General, when there was assigned to him command of the Red River expedition. That service entailed no bloodshed, because when Wolseley's rifles and militia skirmished across the Manitoban plain up to the stockade of Fort Garry, it was found that the malcontent half-breed Riel and his adherents had fled and dispersed, but what it did entail if it were to be a success were careful organisation, steady, arduous labour, shrewd knowledge of men. It was the first "total abstinence" expedition which British soldiers had ever undertaken. From Thunder Bay over 460 miles of boating and portage had to be accomplished, and there was no rum in the ration. If I remember rightly, not a man was lost from start to finish; and where before Wolseley's arrival in 1850 the half-breeds in their scattered huts were valiantly defying Canadian rule, there stands to-day a Canadian city with a population of 25,000 souls, the capital of a vast province on the very crest of the wave of prosperity. The Red River expedition made Wolseley a colonel and a K. C. M. G.

When the Gold Coast trouble began, Sir Garnet Wolseley was on the Horse Guards Staff. A letter appeared in the Daily News which suggested a plan of operations gathered from a perusal of the sparse topographical information available in relation to Ashantee, and naming Sir Garnet as the officer whose antecedents indicated him as a suitable man for the command of an expedition. Soon after, he was appointed to the position, and in September, 1873, he sailed in advance of his troops, but with a large staff of officers "on special service." Some of the officers who accompanied him or followed him to the Gold Coast—M'Neil, Buller, Butler, Huyshe, Swaine, and others—had been with him in the Red River expedition; others he had recruited pro hoc ice, because of his belief in them as adequate instruments for carrying out his disposition. Among best known of these were Evelyn Wood, Baker, ell, T. B. Baker, Colonel Greaves, young e, who had beaten his chief in the competi- he Wellington prize essay, Lord Gifford, and Henry Brackenbury. These and some tuted the original "Wolseley Gang," steadily recruited as experience and e served, and which has created so d heartburning among the officer- s. Wolseley's argument is per- al. ADVERTISING AT RAILWAY STATIONS.

THE PROPRIETOR of the Bombay Gazette Press, having leased from the NIZAM'S STATE RAILWAY Company the exclusive right of advertising at all the Railway Stations belonging to the Company, is prepared to contract with parties desirous of posting notices or advertisements on the lines.

The Cantonment of SECUNDRABAD, as is well-known, contains the largest military garrison in India—a garrison comprising over 5,000 British and native troops. Contiguous to it is the Cantonment of BOLARUM garrisoned by two regiments and one Battery of the Hydrabad Contingent, all officered by Europeans. South of Secundrabad, about 4 miles, are the suburbs of Hydrabad, containing the Nizam's regular troops, about 5,000 in number, officered mostly by Europeans—besides a large civil population. It would manifestly be advantageous to firms to advertise at the stations on the above railway, the most important of which are SECUNDRABAD, HYDRABAD, GANGAWARUM and TANJOUR.

The announcements may be in English or in any of the NATIVE LANGUAGES.

The advantages which Railway Stations as present as a means of bringing intimations of all kinds before the public have been demonstrated in England by the extensive use which is made by Advertisers, of every station, great and small, along every one in the United Kingdom.

PROVISION BY MEANS OF LIFE ASSURANCE.

THE preference shown by the Assuring Public last year in selecting the Standard Life Office for Assurances amounting to upwards of £1,400,000, a sum which considerably exceeds the new business of any of the Scottish Life Offices, may probably be attributed in a great measure:—

1. To the magnitude of the Company's Funds and the select nature of the investments.
2. To the steady and unfluctuating character of its annual results.
3. To the comprehensive and liberal conditions of STANDARD POLICIES and the Company's promptitude in the payment of claims.
4. To the old established and influential connections of the Company.
5. To the strict control exercised over its expenditure and general management.

Forms of proposal and prospectuses may be obtained on application.

PIANOFORTES.

IN OUR SHOW ROOMS may now be seen the largest and most VARIED STOCK of PIANOS ever brought together in any establishment in India.
The many years and great practical experience our Manager has acquired, as to the class of instrument best calculated to withstand the effects of this climate, places us in a position to offer Pianos DEVOID of the MANY DEFECTS peculiar to most instruments imported, such as 1st—Nonflexible touch.
2nd—Badly repeating actions.
3rd—Metallic jingle in Bass at touch of pedals.
4th—Loss of brilliancy of upper notes after a few years' use.
5th—Snapping asunder of the cast-iron plate at Bass end.
6th—A touch suitable only for a Lady, but calculated to yield to the heavier manipulation of the masculine hand.
All the above mentioned objections are overcome by the following IMPROVEMENTS in Pianos imported by us:—
1st—Light check actions.
2nd—Repetition touch.
3rd—New American or Steinway system of dampers.
4th—Agraffe to iron frame in Treble.
5th—New improved solid entire iron frame.
6th—The 1st and 2nd qualities combined make a touch unequalled for light and rapid playing of amateurs, as also for the hard and continuous work of professionals.
